WEDDINGS

CHRISTENSEN — CRAIG

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Craig at seven-thirty p.m. Monday, October 18th, when their daughter, Muriel Kathleen became the bride of Mr. Leslie Warren Christensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Christensen of Champion. Rev. Melvin Dobson officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the drawing room to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Joyce Christensen, sister of the groom. The young bride was lovely in a gown of navy blue silk and honey crepe trimmed in Brazilian rose. Her accessories were navy and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Lavone Atkinson was the bridesmaid and she chose a gown of navy blue sheer with which she wore a corsage of roses. Mr. George Hutchinson was best man.

During the signing of the register, Master Ronnie Craig, brother of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Helen Craig.

Following the ceremony a reception for immediate members of the family and a few close friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion with bouquets of bronze and yellow spray mums. Two heart-shaped wedding cakes with a tiny vase of pink rosebuds flanked by tall white tapers centred the bride's table. The table was presided over by Mrs. J. Kenneth Craig, aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Craig chose for her daughter's wedding an ensemble of Rostile crepe while the groom's mother was smart in a green wool fabric dress trimmed with cream lace. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow roses.

The bridal party motored to Champion later in the evening where a wedding dance was held. After the dance a supper was given at the W. V. Christensen home, out of town.

Vulcan Student Wins Athlone Bronze Medal

Shirley Robson Wins Highest
Honour in Grade IX Examination

A outstanding scholar of the Vulcan school, Miss Shirley Robson has been awarded the Rank of Athlone bronze medal for attaining the highest marks in the Football Division in the grade IX departmental examinations held last June.

A grade ahead of most students of her age, Miss Robson, who is fourteen years of age, has had the added handicap of having to come in six miles each day to attend classes. Mr. A. J. Doney, her teacher last year, says she is an outstanding pupil in all subjects. Miss Robson, however, expresses a preference for mathematics.

The bronze medal, which is about two inches in diameter, has the bust of H.E. the Governor-General and H.R.H. Princess Alice on one side and the Coat of Arms of the Earl of Athlone on the other side.

A copy of the letter received by Miss Robson, is as follows:

Edmonton, Alberta
October 9, 1941

Dear Shirley:-
I have the honor to advise you that His Excellency, the Earl of Athlone has donated bronze medals for competition in connection with the Grade IX departmental examinations of Alberta for the year 1941. A medal is being awarded one student prepared in the Football Division, and it is with pleasure that I inform you that the medal is being awarded to you as the candidate having achieved the highest standing on the Grade IX examination in this division.

Please accept my congratulations. This success means that we shall be expecting outstanding work on your part during your high school career. It is requested that you forward to the department an acknowledgment of this medal in your own handwriting for transmission to His Excellency, the Governor-General.

This medal is being forwarded to your address under registered cover.

Airport Brings Increased Activity

Vulcan is beginning to take on the aspects of a boom town these days, with an ever-increasing number of people pouring into the district owing to the building of the air service training field west of town. Garages, restaurants, rooming-houses, the hotel and stores are all experiencing this welcome increase in their business.

With a view to assuring the continuance of this trade by encouraging the federal government to provide a good gravelled road to the field from Vulcan, the municipal council has offered the use of its equipment, and local business men have guaranteed $500 for labor and maintenance of the machine.

An engineer from the government is now last week inspecting different routes to the field, and it was pointed out to him that there is already a fine, high, graded road the entire way to the field, which with travelling should provide an excellent highway even in bad weather.

The shortage of houses is also becoming a problem to the workers, and it is showing its effects in a general raising of rents. Residents in the vicinity of the field are boarding large numbers of the laborers, but men with families are anxious to obtain homes as they can bring the families here.

Pallbearers were G.C. House, F. McInenly, H. Goldthorpe, M. Finn, J. Wyatt and Russell Shatto.

Rev. M. Dobson officiated at the funeral services. Interment was at the Vulcan cemetery, Kelly Funeral Home with S. W. Jones in charge.

Vulcan Backs Dollar Wheat

O.L. McPherson Gave a Very Interesting Talk on the Processing Tax on Wheat

The dollar wheat policy received the support of nearly two hundred prominent farmers and business men of Vulcan and district, who attended a special meeting in the Vulcan Theatre on Tuesday afternoon. Two resolutions were passed. The first resolution asked the Dominion government through the Canadian Wheat Board, to raise the initial payment on wheat to one dollar per bushel basis No. 1 wheat at lake and ocean terminals. The second urged that the crop year 1941-1942 be declared an emergency year under the terms of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, and asked further that the Dominion government take such financial measures as will adequately meet present conditions to this end revising the payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act to that farmers whose crops are small will be paid an amount sufficient to provide a standard of living for their families and to enable them to continue their farming operations.

Speakers for the meeting were Geo. Coote of Nanton, who dwelt at some length on the necessity of the action urged in the resolution and gave statistics to further emphasize their need. Mrs. M. Berger of Parkland, former provincial president of the C.W.A., and Mr. O. L. McPherson who spoke on the necessity of compelling the people of Canada to pay at least a profitable price for all wheat consumed in Canada, and stressed the processing tax. The highlights of Mr. O. L. McPherson's speech were as follows:

Re Processing Tax on Wheat—Having regard to the facts concerning the whole Canadian wheat situation, together with the current wage and salary situation I am at a loss to understand why we do not have a processing tax of at least $1.50 per bushel on all home consumed wheat. This would distribute part of the burden of carrying this real national problem to the consumers of wheat in Canada instead of making it an unbearable load on the wheat growers and increasing the burden on the hard-pressed National government.

What kind of a roar would be heard if our National government as a wartime necessity, found it expedient to take over the output of all our factories, and distribute to the people of Canada, all they wanted of these articles, regardless of the cost of production at an arbitrary price away below the cost of production, and this in spite of the fact that wages and salaries and incomes generally are considerably above what they were when the manufacturers were receiving a much higher price for their products.

Would any other situation of the Canadian people stand for such treatment? Would organized labor? Would industry? We have the answer in the more or less unreasonable labor strikes, and the refusal of the manufacturers to consider the proposal of the government for cost plus production on a fair basis. Suppose it did.

Would organized labor and the general voting public be asked to pay a small profit on farm products. Why shouldn't the general public who are motivated by greatly increased returns since the war started with cost of living bonuses to take care of every fluctuation in their living costs, pay for the wheat they consume on a basis commensurate with general price levels. This would have permitted a payment of 10 cents per bushel on the 1940 crop, which was the most uniform added income to wheat growers that could have been desired. In the past sixteen years the average return from the wheat industry in the west has been 250,000,000, but during the past eight years has been only slightly more than 150,000,000. Then on top of this condition and in spite of one of the highest wage periods in our history having regard to purchasing power, we are asked to feed multitudes in Canada on a basis considerably under the cost of production. In old fashioned verbiage, this is adding insult to injury.

By special arrangement the Canadian Bank of Commerce will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. on the 5th and 20th of each month solely for the purpose of cashing the pay cheques of Marwell Construction Company Limited and those who are unable to visit the bank during regular business hours. No service will be given to the general public on the nights the bank is open as such is contrary to the hours of business defined by the Bank Act. Other places of business remain open on the above nights to accommodate these employees.

Less Instalment Buying

ACTION taken by the government to discourage instalment buying should be a good thing for many reasons, though undoubtedly cramping most seriously, the young people who are just getting a start and many people who have not been in position for years, until now to make necessary replacements of outworn articles in their homes.

Several purposes are served by the stiff curb placed on time payment plans.

It reduces purchase of civilian goods, thus enabling factories to give more time to the war requirements. And the whole present cry is for more materials of war.

The restriction placed on manufacture and the difficulty of securing many articles, will divert more earnings to government to pay for war expenditure as largely as possible on a cash basis. If coveted articles begin to disappear from the market, if the time payment plan is discouraged, prospective purchasers will be inclined to invest any surplus earnings they may have in bonds, war certificates or stamps. They may suffer present discomfort in varying degree, but with the feeling that they are storing up for themselves against the future.

This reserve should play an important part in easing any dislocation which may result as a consequence of the swing from war-time to peace-time conditions. And the multiple domestic needs of the people will have so accumulated under the restrictions of war-time that factories after the war will be turned immediately to meeting the pent up needs of the people. At any rate, at present, this would seem to be the consequence of current saving.

There is, of course, the inevitable fact that those who make most money will be able to buy what they want on a cash basis, and can thus satisfy their desires, as well as their needs. It is the poorer people who have found instalment buying a way of living—and in some cases, a pitfall. A one hundred dollar cash purchase is quite beyond them, but they can raise a modest cash payment and $5 or $10 monthly, thus enjoying the purchase as they pay for it. There is a measure of risk, but it has become the basis on which a tremendous amount of national business is carried on, with satisfaction to all concerned.

However, a habit of saving will be created under the regulations; more money will be available for investment in the government and more labor released to manufacture of war-time industries. The majority of people will get along with the old furniture and furnishings and feel virtuous in the compulsory restriction.

But unless the War Time Prices Board keeps a stern check on the retail cost of all goods, all wages will be absorbed in just keeping the family fed and clothed, with no money for government investment. The new spending power of the people could be absorbed by the profiteer.

War Savings

HON. J. L. ILSLEY, Minister of Finance, has been again urging upon the public, the financial requirements of the war. In order to avoid the overwhelming burden of post-war debt to as great a degree as possible, the government has been striving to finance through investment of Canadians in bonds, war savings certificates and stamps. The money borrowed from Canadians is spent in Canada. Later, when that money may have to be returned to the investor, it will again be spent in Canada for need of living.

It is in national interest and individual interest for both present and future that all sums possible to be raised by investment on the part of the public. The funds not only assist the government, but establish the principle of saving a part of the income.

There is a renewal of the government's war savings certificate campaign, offering systematic and profitable savings for all classes of people. These certificates may be bought for as low a denomination as $5.00, the purchaser paying $4.00 for a $5.00 certificate.

Some have adopted the plan of systematic weekly or monthly saving, according to their means, and have already the satisfaction of seeing the modest savings grow from month to month. The certificates also bear interest and are redeemable at face value in seven years. They are negotiable at the end of six months, if it should become necessary to realize on them.

There are many people who are unable to buy bonds, but it is amongst the masses of Canadians that the War Savings certificates are bought. School children also and small wage earners, manage to lay aside the quarters necessary for this purchase.

The plan is important in enabling those of small earning power to have a part in financing the war. Individual investment may be small, but the sum total of all the individual effort will go and has already gone a long way in providing munitions of war on a cash basis.

Emulating the Owl

THERE is a rhyme borrowed from an exchange that goes "A wise old owl lived in an oak. The more he saw the less he spoke. The less he spoke the more he heard. Why can't we all be like that bird?"

Everyone agrees that the tongue is an unruly member, accountable for most of the troubles of the world. For the once a person regrets keeping silence, he regrets a hundred times speaking too much or too often.

It is the silent people who gain credit for wisdom. Perhaps they are no brighter than others except in that one respect. They know when not to talk. And with no effort on their part, beyond a little self-restraint, they gain the reputation of being thoughtful men. When they do speak, they command attention.

Pertinent Topics

DISCUSSED BY H. C.

Those who believe that the war will have the effect of bringing the classes to a common level in England, will have their confidence strengthened by reading the agony column of the London Times.—On Sept. 30 that famous column carried the following advertisement: "Middle-aged peer, peeress, energetic, capable; former with military, business experience, good linguist; latter good organizer and two half years general nursing experience. Desires suitable employment together with accommodations. No salary."

It is said there may be a rationing of telephone conversation owing to the difficulty of keeping the exchanges manned or womaned. One correspondent suggests it would be no sin to curb the loquacity of the female users. It would help some, too, if Mr. Illsley would issue a request of all government departments to use long distance calls more sparingly. It would have to come from him because the Bell cannot be expected to discourage so profitable a source of revenue. A gentleman told us the other day of a call he got which cost the government $2.32. It was for information already on the department's files, and anyway was not too urgent for a letter in a franked envelope.

A Japanese Admiral says Japan is itching for action. In view of her Chinese adventure she won't have to start from scratch.

She is getting valuable assistance however, from our former allies. First, Vichy gives her a toe-hold in Indo-China and now Portugal gives her an air-base on one of her eastern islands from which she can menace Australia. That Portugal has any such favors to offer our enemies she owes to British protection of her colonies.

The curb on instalment buying may effect some persons and companies injuriously but it was a proper move for which Mr. Illsley should receive credit. If it affects adversely those industries producing goods not necessary to war effort, it will to that extent assist in helping war production. Such at any rate is the intention and object of the Finance Minister.

It will help also those who are tempted to buy things they can do without, because the dollar down and the dollar a month appeal to them. It is not good business for them or for the dealer. Buying on a shoe-string is seldom profitable.

Headline says: "Italians walk on their Uppers," presumably instep with the Germans.

What happened in Iran and Panama shows that others can play Hitler's game when they have to.

Even if Russia should fall we can say it might have been worse. It would have been worse if it had not been attacked at all. Every German killed or wounded; every tank, plane, truck or gun destroyed; every gallon of gasoline or oil consumed is all so much to the good. All to the good, too, is the addition Hitler made to his list of enemies. His only gain is what gain he makes from the idiots who look upon him as the saviour of mankind from bolshevism.

Whom were the United States afraid of when they passed the Neutrality Act which, they thought, would keep them out of war by keeping their ships out of the combat zones? Surely not Britain. It was Germany they feared. Even then Hitler had made them give up a large slice of their liberty which they are now trying to recover. In the votes on the repeal of that Act, the Republicans are showing good sense in eschewing the leadership of Taft and Wheeler and following that of Wendell L. Willkie.

A Tokyo despatch, says economic conditions are bad but that the Japanese do not blame themselves or their government but rather the British and Americans who do not understand them and try to encircle them. They learned this from their German allies and "tourists." It was a favorite argument with Germany for many years. It was baby talk then as it is now.

Mobile columns comprising many men and tanks and trucks, are using up time and money and gasoline going about the country trying to drum up recruits, and recruiting officers are asked to canvas prospects individually to get them to see their duty. We are not sure that they go to all sections but we do know they have visited sections that had already responded very well to the call. Reports are now seeping out of Ottawa that the Cabinet is discussing conscription because other means are failing to bring in a sufficient number of recruits, but it would be no remedy if the administration was left to the present political leaders.

It looks so easy to keep quiet, but try and do it. Most of the harm and unhappiness which we inflict on others comes from passing on stories which are mere hearsay. We may not even believe them ourselves. We may pass on some damaging tale, and then squirm out from under by saying "Of course it may not be true. I just heard it."

It is strange that it is mostly unpleasant things which are told in this way. This might indicate that we are compromising with conscience and qualifying the damaging news with "It may not be true." Our better judgment is warning us not to tell it. Our insatiable desire to spread news demands that we tell all we know, suspect or hope. It does not reflect much credit upon us as decent human beings.

And how often we shade the truth about some one we dislike, construing something they may say or do, to cast them in an unfavorable light. This is dishonesty of far more malicious and wicked nature than if we walked into their homes and stole their goods and chattels. We start stories or spread stories for which we can never make restitution. Many people who would not steal a pin from a neighbor will ruthlessly steal reputations, and yet would be affronted if they were charged with dishonesty.

Human beings are a strange mixture of kindness and cruelty; of impulses which are heaven-born and of the devil. They have failed in governing themselves, and the most frequent betrayal of this failure is through the tongue. If, like the owl, we could just learn to speak less we would have more time for thinking. And our own little world would be a happier place.

Undernourishment Across Europe

There can be no doubt that the health of all the people across the Atlantic, including the British, is going to suffer prodigiously through lack of proper nourishment. Food is now rationed in every one of Europe's 21 countries. Judged by the caloric yardstick—that each active, mature male needs 3-4,000 calories a day merely to sustain health; 2,500 for a sedentary female—Europeans were not merely scantily nourished but acutely undernourished. The Poles were getting only 800 calories a day, the Belgians 960, Norwegians 1,500, Hollanders 1,900, the Germans from 2,250 to 2,300, the British 2,800. These figures, based on the average daily ration permitted, over-looked the larder—fact that actually very few people in any of the countries are lucky enough to find or be able to buy the amount of food they are entitled to.

Friday, October 24th, at 8 p.m., Prayer and Bible study service. Great chapters of the Bible. Matthew 1, the fourth section of our Bible study comes to the gospels, the good news. Why good news?

ANGLICAN CHURCH

The Bishop of Calgary has been obliged to postpone his proposed visit to St. Aldhelm's church on Sunday, 26th October. Services will therefore be those usual for the fourth Sunday in the month, namely Holy Communion at 11 a.m. Church school at 12.15, and Evensong at 7.30. Subject "Sovereign Rights and Self-government." There will also be service at Lomond at 3 p.m.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Four young people of the local Church of Christ, will debate next Sunday evening, at the regular meeting of the Young People, on the subject of "Resolved that in the interests of humanity, it is desirable that voluntary euthanasia should be legalized," subject to adequate safeguards for the person who are suffering from incurable, fatal and painful disease.

Those taking part will be: Affirmative, Miss Ruth Hansell and Mr. Leslie Jones, while the negative will be taken by Miss Ruth Wismer and Mr. Lloyd Clark. The judges are to be three well known figures, Mr. Robert Gonyea, minister of the local Church of Christ, Mrs. L. Oldfield and Mr. J. Doney, both teachers in the local school.

The subject though not often discussed, should prove to be very interesting.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

A hearty invitation to the following services is extended to all on behalf of the congregation of the Church of Christ: Sunday, Oct. 26, 10.30 a.m., the Bible school with classes for all. 11 a.m. weekly "Lord's Supper," service, followed by the message of the morning. 7.30 p.m., evening service consisting of a lively song service assisted by the orchestra, and followed by the message for the evening, the message being "Salvation's Characteristics." 8.30 p.m., Young People's Christian Endeavor meeting featuring an interesting debate.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD CONVENTION IN VULCAN

The young people of the Church of Christ throughout Alberta, are to gather in convention in the Church of Christ the week-end of November 1st and 2nd. This is the same annual convention of the Provincial Young Peoples' Society, and delegates are expected from all parts of the province.

The Young People's Societies of the Church of Christ in Alberta, are particularly active in Christian work. The junior and senior young people's summer camps, with a faculty of competent teachers, some of whom are from other countries, is one of the outstanding efforts of this organization. The young people also take an active interest in the Alberta Bible College which seeks to train western young men and women for the ministry of their Canadian churches.

These young people also take special interest in the missionary activities of the Churches of Christ throughout the world. All these and other special matters of interest will be discussed at the coming convention, while the program is to be well filled with messages of inspiration and education from outstanding speakers. The convention of the Alberta Churches of Christ Young People's Societies is headed by Mr. Tom Rash of Hanna. Other members of the executive are Mr. Frank Rempie of Calgary, secretary-treasurer. The Vulcan Society feels privileged in entertaining this 1941 fall convention. The executive of this society is composed of Miss Ruth Wismer, president; Miss Ruth Hansell, vice-pres.; Miss Viola Loxton, secretary. Much of the arrangement for the social activities of the convention will be in charge of Mr. Lloyd Clark. All the sessions of the convention are open to the public.

Set Top Scale On Wages—Prices

Prices, Rentals, Charges on Many Services Cannot Exceed Maximum Levels From
Sept. 15 to Oct. 11

Starting Nov. 17, no person will be permitted to sell goods or supply any service at a price higher than the maximum charged in the four week period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 11. Prices are to be halted at the level they already reached. Except in cases where minimum prices are fixed, prices will be free to fall below the "ceiling."

The principle of price ceiling will apply to farm prices but the government recognizes that the total agricultural income required support by government action. In determining maximum for farm products, the wartime prices and trade board would have discretion to act as it would be impossible to base maximum prices on selling prices of individual farmers. In case of farm produce which rises and falls seasonally it would be necessary to have minimum prices also.

Enforcement

Thousands of commodities will be affected with prices above which they cannot rise, and penalties are imposed on any merchant charging higher than the fixed prices up to $5,000.

The board under chairmanship of Hector McKinnon, after fixing the price ceiling for manufactured goods will have to see that manufacturers can get raw materials at reasonable prices. Where items are imported there may be trouble. Imported finished goods will also have their ceiling, and if these rise higher than the Canadian ceiling they cannot be imported.

Wage Stabilization

Along with the fixed ceiling on goods, rentals and so on, there is a wage stabilization policy. No employer in Canadian business may increase his present basic wage rate without permission, and after Nov. 15 every employer will be obliged to pay a bonus in accordance with the terms of the government order, and to adjust the bonus every three months according to a definite formula.

Distinction is made between wages and salaries. Men in executive position on "salaries" would not be affected. Employees of provincial and municipal governments, domestic servants and farm laborers are outside the plan.

The governing factor in the bonus is the cost of living index, which was 110.8 at the outbreak of the war and on Sept. 1, was 114.7.

Rigid Economic Control

This general scheme of economic control as outlined by Prime Minister King on Saturday evening is the most drastic ever contemplated. Coupled with the check on instalment buying and extended credit, it will put a great curb on inflation. Mr. King said that the rise in prices was due mainly to the fact that people generally had more money to spend and less things to buy. The government is competing with the individual in buying almost all commodities. In the last war only 10% of the national income was spent in war purposes. Now 40% is devoted to war, so the problem is even more acute than in the last war. Rising prices aggravated inequalities he said, hitting those with small incomes, with special severity. By calling a halt in the rise of prices, the people he said would be protected as fairly as possible.

Who Is Affected?

Everyone is affected in the new regulations. There are minor difficulties but there is general agreement that the principle is necessary and right.

Perhaps the greatest difficulty will be for the small business man who is already working on a very narrow margin of profit and has enjoyed no noticeable increase in business. If he has to pay wage bonuses, it may force him from business.

The trend toward cash dealings instead of extended credit, might work temporary hardship but would be good for all in the long run.

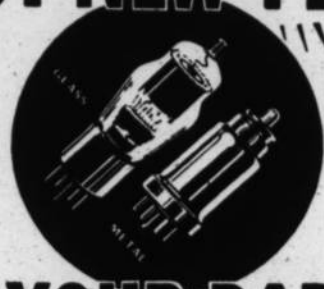

Feeding Wheat To Hogs—Why Not?

Dr. Sinclair of the University of Alberta, said farmers could realize something like $1.19 a bushel if they fed their wheat to hogs. If they sell it to the Wheat Board they will get somewhere between 45c and 55c a bushel, depending on the grade. Surely common sense would suggest that farmers should use wheat for hog feed and more than double their money in the process, particularly when the government is carrying an enormous load of wheat and storage space in elevators is so limited.

The minister of agriculture says that after the war there will be a tremendous demand for Canadian wheat. Not being expert on such matters we hesitate to say that he is wrong. We are of the opinion, however, that the old adage, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" is still sound. If the farmers can even make 80c a bushel feeding wheat to hogs we think it good business for them to do so.

One thing is certain, and that is that there is a demand at present time for every hog Canadian farmers can produce, while there certainly does not seem to be a demand for every bushel of wheat the farmer delivers to

(Bowmanville Statesman)

"Five hundred million bushels of wheat as an unsaleable surplus, financed by the public, has been the federal government's prime headache. Financing it has caused no little embarrassment."

"But just one moment. The war has broadened into Russia. The greatest wheat plains on the globe have been overrun. The Ukraine is now in the grip of the Hun. The Russians, undaunted, are backing up toward the mountains, with present rations strapped to their backs. Here then is the world's greatest wheat producer with her wheat lands lost. Nearly two hundred million Russians must be fed."

"With what we may now consider only a modest surplus and with our 'scarcity' policy still on the books, we may wake up some morning and find not a bushel left. Then what? A new policy?"

HOME PAPER SURE DOES

Simcoe Reformer—Some people seem to have the impression that the weekly newspaper doesn't cover the territory it serves in comparison to other media, such as dailies, magazines, etc. Recently the extension department of the University of Alberta made a survey through their youth training schools of the situation existing in that province. Questionnaires were sent out and it was revealed that in the households the weekly newspapers held a decidedly strong lead over other kinds of publications. The survey-naires were sent out and it was revealed: 76.2 per cent. get the local weekly newspaper; 34.5 get a daily newspaper; 21 per cent. get a farm paper; 27 per cent. get other periodicals. When a community or district has a substantially good weekly newspaper that concentrates on giving services people are entitled to, there is no doubt that advertisers can safely choose it as the medium to reach the people.

British and U.S. missions to Moscow will re-emphasize the determination to give aid to Russia. Separately both countries give assurance of aid in motion at the present time.

Navy League Secretary Pays Visit to Vulcan

Rallying to support the Navy League of Canada in its work of assisting widows and orphans of the merchant marine and their dependents; maintaining sailors' homes and institutes in our large Canadian ports from coast to coast and looking after the welfare of seamen ashore; training boys and young men and helping to make better Canadian citizens of them, the citizens of Lomond subscribed $14.25; Vulcan $44.75 to this cause in a recent campaign conducted here by Fred Cook, organizer of the Alberta division, 1107 15th Ave. West, Calgary. The writer states that recently the Navy League shipped to our sailors on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, 10,000 ditty bags filled with lovely gifts for sailors at an average cost of $5.00 per bag; 800,000 cigarettes, tax and duty free; 40,000 chocolate bars; 40,000 packages of chewing gum, 10,000 pounds plum pudding. Scores of thousands of knitted garments, scores of thousands of magazines. The Navy League provided Christmas cheer by way of a full week of entertainment and dinner for the thousands of sailors who had shore leave at ocean ports as well as dependents of British and Canadian sailors lost at sea.

In December the Navy League distributed over 1,000,000 pieces of patriotic literature in the schools of Ontario. Almost a half a million pupils signed the patriotic testimonials of appreciation and loyalty to their Majesties the King and Queen. Some 3,000,000 pupils shared their savings to help the Navy League give Christmas cheer to thousands of sailors and their dependents, many giving their own Christmas parties for this purpose. More than 5000 teen aged boys received the advantage of training in seamanship and clean manly citizenship during 1940 in the Navy League Cadet Corps. Uniforms, full equipment, instruction, ships quarters qualified officers and all other requirements were provided free to the boys the Navy League paying costs.

More than 1,000 well trained cadets and ex-cadets went into active service in 1940 in His Majesty's forces on the sea, on land and in the air.

Many of these boys have shown outstanding heroism and bravery. 90% of the Navy League's is done by voluntary effort and the administration costs of these operations are exceedingly small.

The Navy League of Canada is officially registered and authorized to collect funds by the Dept. of National Services under the War Charities Act.

J. S. McLean of Canadian Packers has received an honorary degree of doctor of laws at Queen's University. Senator Arthur Meighen is similarly honored; also Hon. J. L. Balton, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, and Sir Edward Peacock, governor of the Bank of England.

Press Party Sees Great Work of Navy

In previous issues of the Times, the editor has told of the tour made by Canadian newspapermen this summer through the defence works of eastern Canada.

The concluding phase of this illuminating journey was a survey of the Royal Canadian navy at Halifax.

The city itself was scarcely recognizable, so completely has it been geared to war-time activity, with some form of naval service or naval personnel dominating the scene.

In the technical training schools, in which gunnery, navigation, wireless telegraphy, signalling and such instruction were carried on there was presented an invigorating cross section of Canadian youth. Lads from plains and mountains had flocked to navy, no less than those who have lived on the waterfront. All seemed enthusiastic and earnest, and many seemed remarkably young for the responsibilities laid upon them. Many of the officers seemed still in their early twenties, alert and competent.

These sturdy Canadian destroyers, operating in Atlantic waters freshly patrolled by mine-sweepers, gave touring editors a first-hand view of the Canadian Navy's efficiency.

Commodore Jones, O.C. of the Atlantic Coast, told of how convoys are assembled and escorted across the ocean. In this phase of service alone, the Royal Canadian Navy is playing a part which will not be revealed till after the war. But to its credit goes the safe convoy of thousands of ships, and men, and millions of tons of cargo to the British Isles.

Depth Charge — Smoke Screen

The editorial party toured the harbor on one of the destroyers (one of the fifty American destroyers turned over to Britain). Depth charges were dropped and a smoke screen was rolled out to give a practical picture of one phase of life on a destroyer. The depth charges jarred the destroyer throughout its length, and must be a terror to the submarines lurking below. Overhead great flying boats swept, carrying out long distance patrol far out on the Atlantic. The Captain of the destroyer had served aboard the H.M.C.S. Fraser which went down in collision in the English channel, and he and his officers were most courteous in explaining the services of the vessel in patrol and convoy work.

Corvettes

As the destroyer moved out into the ocean several mine sweepers were observed, and corvettes were also in evidence, returning home from patrols. The dockyards at Quebec had prepared us for the work involved in building this new type of vessel, the corvette. It rivals the destroyer in size and armament, but there are smaller models being built. Men on corvettes undergo great training in gunnery and it is regarded as a most effective arm of naval strength.

In the last two years the R.C.N. has expanded from 13 to 250 ships, and in manpower from 1300 to 23,000 men, with ships and men increasing fast in numbers and effectiveness.

Halifax Fortified

As the party headed in toward Halifax, one caught glimpses of the impressive coastal defences of the harbor. And indeed the city of Halifax in its entirety confronts the invader: with the most serious evidence of the realities of war. Facing the bleak Atlantic, it is manned for defence, and from its harbor go out the naval forces charged with the responsibilities of keeping sea lanes open, and guiding to safe harbor the armies and cargoes from Canada to the British Isles. Its fortifications are a portal of defence for the Dominion.

Halifax

Because Halifax is almost wholly given over to the various branches of the fleet, there is great demand made on the organizations of the city for auxiliary work. Much extra work devolves upon women in running canteens and arranging recreations.

These canteens are widespread, and one small service of this sort has served 25,000 meals in one month. Churches and social organizations have assumed heavy responsibilities to brighten the lives of the men whose service means so much to Canada. Two large naval hospitals have gone up recently to supplement existing services in this respect.
